Scott Rosenberg of Salon magazine has stated a fine opinion about the Microsoft settlement in his column dated 1/16/2002 on Salon.com
(<http://www.salon.com/tech/col/rose/2002/01/16/competition/index.html>)

I very much agreed with his opinion and hope that the Justice department does take his recommendations under consideration. I believe that Microsoft has repeatedly broken the law and that they have hurt consumers. I think that forcing Microsoft to open its Windows API and the Office document format is a fair and just settlement. I do not think that breaking up the company will be as good for consumers.

Thank you for your interest in my opinion,
